Darrow and Crowe Will Battle Again For Life of Youth

Veteran Criminal Attorney to Take Stand to Save Bernard Grant From Death Gallows

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Attorney Clarence Darrow and State Attorney Robert E. Crowe, victor and vanquished respectively in the sensational Leopold-Loeb murder case, will come to grips again next month, this time over the life of a penniless youth.

Now that Darrow has promised to appear personally before the board of pardons in behalf of Bernard Grant, sentenced to hang October 17 for the murder of a policeman, Crowe has started to prepare his fight against pardon or commutation of sentence.

No Official Petition "So far a petition has not been placed before the governor in behalf of Grant," Crowe told the United Press. "We shall oppose overturning of the sentence. Grant was found guilty of murder and the jury decided the death penalty. His age has nothing to do with it."

"Will you appear in person, to oppose Mr. Darrow?" he was asked. "I do not know yet whether I shall be there," Crowe said.

When Darrow does appear before the board he will have the weight of some 2,000,000 names behind him, Attorney Thomas E. Swanson, acting for Grant, said today.

Thousands Ask Clemency The names of more than 250,000 persons in Illinois will appear on petitions demanding executive clemency, Swanson said. The Illinois federation of women's club with a membership of more than 100,000 is taking an active part in securing signatures.

Thousands of persons from coast to coast are flooding Governor Sullivan's office with demands for executive clemency. Many persons are writing directly to Swanson, urging him to keep up the fight and offering help.

A letter from Detroit contained one dollar toward the defense fund. A telegram from William A. Dunn, physician, from St. Louis, Mo., read:

"Since seeing newspaper articles of your trying to get a commutation of sentence for Bernard Grant, I wish to ask your advice as to what he might do in the way of help."

ACTION HELD UP ON ARMORY

500 Feet Frontage On Lakeshore Is Asked

Five hundred feet of frontage on Lakeshore drive east from the Department club as a site for the 11th Engineers armory was asked this morning of the city commission by Sergeant Gowran, here to watch over the drive. The commission deferred action until Monday, although Mayor Logan suggested that he considered the foot of Austin avenue a better location.

Gowran asked for a 50-year lease, saying the engineers were willing to donate the site and building to the city whenever a city auditorium would be built. The armory will serve as an auditorium at present, being a building 60 by 200 feet and seating 1200.

Gowran was referred to City Attorney Wistner in order to draw a lease similar to those held now by the American Legion and Department club on Lakeshore park property.

BUTTE TO COME TO PORT ARTHUR

May Speak Here During Trip Over County

Dr. George C. Butte, republican candidate for governor of Texas, will visit Port Arthur and Beaumont this month.

This information was received in Port Arthur today from Beaumont, where Butte is scheduled to make a speech this month as part of a tour over Texas in an active fight on Mrs. Miesan Ferguson, democratic candidate. Butte is expected to visit Port Arthur also when he comes to Beaumont, and he may include Port Arthur in his speaking itinerary.

To Make Statement Dr. Butte, former dean of the University of Texas law school, will make a formal statement at Austin Saturday as to his aims and plans in the gubernatorial race. It is understood, according to friends here.

Prediction was made this morning by the Port Arthurian who received word of Dr. Butte's tour that the professor would carry Jefferson county over Mrs. Ferguson and even win out over the state.

Dr. Butte has served as dean of the state university law school for the last year and was several years ago a professor in the school under Dean John C. Townes. Dr. Butte was one of the professors to resign when Governor Ferguson launched his attack on the university in 1917.

LaRose Suggests Reo Fire Truck

LaRose told the commissioners the Reo's weight was more evenly distributed and could make more speed. Price of the Reo will be $12,500, a saving of $215.00, LaRose said.

U. S. MARINES AT SHANGHAI GATES

Defenders of Treaty Pact Are Crushed

CITY OPEN TO ATTACK

Foreign Settlements' Condition Viewed as Precarious

By D. C. BESS SHANGHAI, Sept. 18.—(9:30 p. m.)—United States marines and other international troops were mobilized for defense of their countrymen in foreign settlements tonight, with a panicky rush of Chinese from the war zone expected at any moment. Capture of Shanghai is momentarily expected.

The anticipated crushing blow against General Lu Yung Hsiang's army before Shanghai was struck this afternoon. The Chekiang forces were routed and victorious Chi Li troops broke through the lines and advanced on the city.

Invaders Crush Defenders General Chi Hsiang Yuan launched an irresistible attack today, after artillery preparation and the Chekiang lines crumbled.

A mob of retreating soldiers and civilians bore back upon Shanghai and it was feared they would overrun the thin line of settlement guards. More than 1,000 international marines and sailors were ordered to the gates and barriers of the settlements.

The victorious Chi Li troops headed a drive for the Woon Sung fort, nearest the sector guarded by American marines.

U. S. Ships Strip for Action Three American destroyers, their guns trained on the forts, were stripped for action and standing by. General Lu's forces were retreating in disorder.

Conditions in the foreign settlements were extremely precarious. More than a million refugees already have sought shelter behind the barricades where the marines, with machine guns and armored cars, stand ready to put down any concerted attempt of Chinese to rush the barriers.

Panic conditions were general among the natives. Lu Yung Hsiang's ally, General Pei Ko Kan surrendered with all his troops to the foreign commander, Sun Chuan Fang.

The civil governor of Hang Chow proclaimed his independence of Lu and fled to Shanghai.

The only Chekiang forces still holding out tonight were on the Liu-Ho-Wangdo front, not far from the city and they were expected to surrender immediately.

Jury Frees Norris When Wife In Testimony Accuses Theriot

SUSPECT HELD IN KIDNAPPING

3-Year-Old Girl Whisked From Bed

AUSTIN, Sept. 18.—A suspect arrested in San Antonio early today in connection with the kidnapping and serious injuring of Howard Louise, 3-year-old daughter of Mrs. James Turnbull, 22, of this city, at midnight last night, was expected to be brought to Austin during the day, when charges, according to Chief of Police J. N. Littlepage, will be preferred against him.

The child was stolen out of bed from the side of her mother who reported the kidnapping when she discovered the little girl was missing. About 1 o'clock Dell Both, a farmer, five miles south of Austin, was awakened by the cries of a child and upon investigation found a little girl in a ditch along the roadside. She was bleeding and in serious condition. He notified the Austin police.

Child Identified The child, identified as Mrs. Turnbull's daughter, examined by a physician, showed evidences of having been the victim of a brutal attack, and a more serious charge than kidnapping may be preferred in the case, according to Chief Littlepage.

Supposition is that the child, after being kidnapped was carried out of Austin in a motor vehicle and the kidnaper after throwing the little girl from the car proceeded to San Antonio where he was arrested about 4:30 o'clock this morning. He is said to be an employee of one of the San Antonio army camps.

CANAL BLOCKED, SHIPS TIED UP

Activities Are At Standstill Here Today

With the canal still blocked by the sunken Italian motorship Isonzo, shipping activities remain confined to Port Arthur and Sabine, four vessels being tied up at Sabine awaiting opportunity to proceed to their ports of destination up the channel. The British steamer Aylestone was the latest arrival at Sabine, having reached that port this morning destined for Beaumont to take cargo for African ports. Others at Sabine awaiting further orders are the U. S. naval tanker Brazos, bound for Beaumont, the British tanker Wynerie, agented by Sydney C. Collin company and destined for Smith's Bluff and the steamer Jeff Davis, agented by the Lykes-Sitceovich agency and bound for Port Neches.

No arrivals were reported this morning at the local wharves, although the Gulf company's tanker Gulfport is scheduled to make port this afternoon at 3 o'clock, coming in from Tampico.

Four vessels sailed today from the Gulf company docks and the Texas Company terminals, two of which were bound for Bayonne, the Gulfprince sailing with a cargo of gasoline and lubricating oil and the New Jersey with a cargo of petroleum products. The J. M. Guffey sailed at noon for Galveston, taking a cargo of crude oil to that point.

WILKES BARRE, Pa., Sept. 18.—"It's my only means of making a living, Judge; please let me go,"

The woman pleaded that she was supporting a blind husband and five small children.

CHURCH MEETING FOR NOVEMBER

Christians to Conduct Revival Campaign

The First Christian church will hold its special evangelistic campaign beginning the first Sunday in November and church members are making arrangements this month to make the revival an outstanding success. Rev. R. R. Yelderman, pastor, said today.

The campaign will be under the direction of Packard and Saxton, noted evangelists of national reputation in the Christian church. Dr. Paul Henry Packard, the evangelist, is possessed of great ability as an evangelist and is a man in his prime of life, according to Rev. Yelderman who said that he has held some of the great revivals for the Christian churches in the past few years in practically every state in the Union.

Mr. Saxton, his singer, is also a veteran his line of work having been in the evangelistic work for more than 15 years. He is an expert in his line as a song leader and special musician, Rev. Yelderman stated.

Rev. Yelderman said that the meeting has been planned and contracted for over ten months in advance and the church members were enthusiastic in their preparations for the revival.

NEED FIRE TUG, SAY MARINERS

Loss of Isonzo Pointed Out
Grave Danger

Destruction by fire of the Italian cargo motor vessel Isonzo was the one thing needed to emphasize the need of the Sabine district for marine fire fighting facilities.

This in brief was the conclusion of half a dozen shipping agents commenting on the loss of a valuable vessel and coking up of the canal at a point just north of the saltlocks when the ship capsized Monday.

It is argued that the federal shipping board maintains a fire tug at the Orange honeyard. Since the war no fire has broken out in that fleet, but the government deems the need of fire protection to so vital that it considers it essential to have protection on the ground in event one should occur.

Several shipping men indicated that some procedure would be started to protect active shipping in the district.

The Editorial Mind

Dr. Frank Crane's Editorials

THE ART OF DYING

A French author, Abbe Brugerette, has issued a volume on the art of dying.

Without having read the book I have much fault to find with it.

In the first place, no one should write about the art of anything unless he has practiced it at least to some extent. Unless the Abbe Brugerette is the reincarnation of Lazarus or some other dead man, we do not understand how he could have gone through the experience.

The question remains whether dying is an art at all.

In the theater and the novel it is an art, perhaps, for much depends upon the way it is carried out. Also the historian has to deal with death in an artistic way.

But in real life, dying is a matter of improvisation and no amount of learning can render one perfect at it. It is usually a very disagreeable and sometimes a very disgusting performance. It can be disguised a good deal for the sake of the people around, but nothing can conceal the fact from one's self.

It is much more important to write upon the art of living, which is a difficult matter, one which has been tried many times, upon which we have abundant experience, and which remains a mystery.

Dying is simply quitting the business of living. It is the end of life, its conclusion, and if one knows how to live well, the dying will take care of itself.

Perhaps, however, the art of living and the art of dying is exactly the same thing.

If one believes in the future life there is no art in dying except the art of preparing for a future existence, and the best way to prepare for the future is to improve the present. The same conclusion is reached by one who does not believe in the future life. Often a religion is of value to us only as it increases the importance and induces us to accept the responsibilities of this life. A religion that looks wholly beyond the grave is of little value to the living.

PORT ARTHUR'S FIRST FAIR MARKS IMPROVED TREND IN CIVIC PRIDE

A man is known by the company he keeps. A community often must depend upon its place in the eyes of the outside world by the fair it holds. A fair is a very capable criterion to community progress and its exhibits proven narratives of resources and advantage.

Port Arthur's first annual fair set for October 14-15-16-17-18, even though yet to be held, has passed the experimental stage. No sooner had the committee begun making plans for it than it became a proven success, though its doors not yet are opened and its exhibits and attractions not yet placed. Port Arthur starts its fair under most favorable auspices, and this can be for no other reason than that the community, favorable to it, is working for it.

There has been a great deal of hard work in connection with the fair which the public has heard little about. There has been a world of details to be executed, nebulous plans to be carried out in concrete form. Happily these have been realized. This hard work by a group of patriotic business men has shown wonderful results. It is another practical illustration of what team work, application, and vision will accomplish. Every community must depend upon its own small group for whatever it can bring to itself. Port Arthur is fortunate in that the group here is a sizable one, and it is an index to a growing manifestation that Port Arthur is finding itself.

A community, of course, must be sold on its own claims before it can sell them to others. Port Arthur is becoming sold—not so much as we should be, but more than we have been. We shall improve. Experience shows that it pays and as we grow, as our needs become apparent and we set to work to solve them, each is a preachment that can be brought home to us in no other way: A community must believe in itself to be believed in by anybody else.

Half of the kicking of tender shins against the stonewall of circumstance is through disorganized effort. A practical way is to remove the stone wall. We need the shins unimpaired for our work. Concerted effort is only another name for organization. We have such an amplitude of man power here, willing, capable workers that it would be an economic sin to allow it to go to waste. The history of every Texas city is filled with narrative of men who have labored for their city, who have dreamed visions and possessed practical ability to carry them out.

Port Arthur is beginning to profit by its experiences. The fair is another evidence of the recent trend. We are going to put our wares on the display counter for all to see. We are going to exert our best to make them well worth seeing. We are going to provide wholesome amusement that must go in hand with fair time. Everybody in Port Arthur is going to be on their toes fair week.

Emerson's story of the path beaten by the world to the door of the man who made a masterpiece of a mousetrap has considerable hard-fact truth in it. The world does just that.

It is the aim of the fair board to produce a fair which will be so representative, so sterling in merit, so clean and wholesome in its attractions that tributary communities will make a beaten path to it. And it's going to do more. It's going to be an eye opener to the people of our own community because it offers a tangible clearing house for every one of us to see the other man's work, to appreciate it more and have ours, in turn appreciated. And that would accomplish a lot even if we didn't have a visitor to it except those among our own people.

WOMEN, LOOK OUT FOR WHITNEY

Woman has the ballot. A woman has been nominated by a great party to be governor of Texas. A woman from Georgia held down a seat in the United States senate for several days. Women have held down seats in the lower house of congress. In Ohio a woman is an associate justice of the Supreme Court. Many states have women lawmakers. Texas had one two years ago. A deaf man defeated her for re-election—a deaf man but not a dumb man. Mrs. May Nolan of California served a full term in congress. She refused a renomination. A mere man, one Lawrence J. Flarey has been nominated by the democrats and the republicans to take the timid May.

Now Fred W. Whitney of the National Surety Company says as a rule women have more regard for honesty than men but he ascribes this regard for the truth principally to an element of fear. The plain English of this is that woman has more regard for honesty than man because she fears exposure, fears arrest, fears punishment.

Man is just as honest, but he will crowd the danger line, he will shake dice with the penitentiary staring him in the face, he will take a chance and if caught and convicted will go on the way.

Mr. Whitney of the National Surety company is certain to get himself talked about. It will never do for him to become a candidate for office. If he should take a plunge in the political pond what the females will do to him will be aplenty.

The Good Old Days
By Captain Kidd
I know young folks are prone to scout my so-called moss-back ways. To cheer whenever I talk about the good old-fashioned days. They say old fables such as I should thank our stars that we enjoy the marvels, ere we die. Of this great century.

"When you were young," my nephew said.
As he goes out to jazz.
"You didn't have advantage.
The modern fellow has.
You had no movies, submarine.
No auto or the 'phone.
No radio or cream machine.
Hot dog or ice cream cone.

"Aha! Young man, that may be true," I gleefully reply.
"But when I courted May or Sue
The most I had to buy
Was five cents worth of lemonade.
Or candy sticks would do.
Just try that with a modern maid:
Go on, I dare you to!"

Customer: "I don't like to trade in a place that contains so many flies."
Butcher: "But you see they are attracted by the good food I keep."

Radio "Applause Cards"
By K. A. Bishes
Station XYZ. Just a line to thank you for the wonderful weather report we heard from your station last evening. Your method of giving us a different bulletin each night is very gratifying, and I am sure your friends appreciate the efforts you make to give us a change in the weather.

Station WAT. Thanks for your talk on "When to Start the Garden." My wife and I both love to work in it. I have already planted two easy chairs in a shady spot. One for myself, and one—for my feet.

Station BILLS. Your talk on how to keep out of debt couldn't be beat. After listening to the hints, I started a family budget. While working on it, I lost three days work, and this is to ask where I could borrow enough money to buy the book on Thrift that was mentioned.

Station PDQ. The talk you gave last night on how to cook biscuits was very much appreciated. My wife followed the instructions, and baked a pan. One I am using as a weight to keep my radio programs together, and the rest will come in handy to fire at the birds that like to perch on my aerial.

Your Money AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

Some of the mistakes in making wills are:
First: Failure of testator to destroy all prior wills.
Second: Creating what is known as "perpetuities," that is, suspending the vesting of the property or estate in any one for a greater period than the life or lives in being, and 21 years thereafter.

Third: Omitting some child or children entirely from the will.
Fourth: Having the will witnessed by some beneficiary or beneficiaries named therein.

Fifth: Failure to have any witnesses, or a sufficient number to the will.
Sixth: Making bequests or devises to eleemosynary (charitable) institutions in wills executed less than from one to three months prior to the death of the testator.

Seventh: Failure to have testator sign the will in the presence of the required number of witnesses, and their in testators' presence, as well also in the presence of each other. The failure in any of these respects, is fatal to the purported will.

The NERVOUS WRECK

By E. J. Rath

©1924 - by NEA Service Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The Nervous Wreck, an eccentric young editor, is driving the Morgan from her father's ranch to the station when they run out of gas. At the point of a gun the Wreck takes five gallons from a passing car.

They are held captive at a ranch owned by one of the men whom they held up. They finally escape, run into a camp of real bandits, then escape again. Fleeing from the bandit camp, they suddenly are confronted by Sheriff Bob Wells. Sally's fiancé, who is at the head of a posse searching for the bandits. Angry, Sally breaks off her engagement with the sheriff and is married to the Wreck by a justice of the peace who is in the sheriff's posse. The marriage license is written on the back of an old road map.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
"See. Here's where we are," he explained, putting a forefinger on the map. "You just follow the main road from here, going left, until you come to this road. A wait. I'll mark it for you. Then you follow the other road. It's a little twisty, but you can't miss it. Keep right on the way I'm showing you until you come to this turn. You keep bearing to the right. That fetches you to another pike, and you follow that to the left. And there's the Bar-M, right in there."

The Wreck nodded and the judge folded the document again.
"It ain't over seventy miles at the outside," he added. "And most of the road is fair. Just hang onto that paper and you're all right. If you want to know whether you're married, read one side of it. If you want to know which way to go on your honeymoon, turn it over. That's what I call a modern and improved public document, useful in more ways than one. Ain't that so, Bob?"

But the sheriff was striding down the trail in the direction of the horses.
"Well, good luck, folks," said the judge, as he shook hands. "The posse's got official business on its hands. I reckon it ought to be easier than rolling flippers."

Sally and the Wreck were left alone. They stood silently until the last member of the posse disappeared. Then the Wreck looked at her awkwardly, coughed, reddened and looked at a stone that lay in the trail. Suddenly he walked over to the flivver and cranked it.

"Get in," he said.
She got in, settled herself in the seat and stared ahead of her. They followed the pike for nearly an hour, until they came to a road that crossed it. Not a word was spoken. He fumbled with the dog-eared document, unfolded it and found the license upturned. He hastily reversing it, he studied the map.

"This is where we turn off," he said.
Sally merely shrugged.
He turned the flivver into the new road and drove on for awhile.

The Wreck shut off the engine and jammed the brakes. He began to articulate. He became abruptly visible, without any clear idea of what he was saying.
"Now, don't you worry a particle. It's my fault, every bit of it. Of course, I hadn't any business to, but—I just couldn't help it. I'm all, I was dreaming, I guess. I got crazy notions. I thought maybe, well, anyhow it's my fault. And I'm sorry; that is, if you're sorry. If you're not—"

But what's the use of talking about that? I'll do my best, for just see. I'll work my head off for you. I'll do anything. Who wouldn't? You give me a chance, that's all. I'll go back to Pittsburgh and I'll make a million dollars for you. I'll give you anything in the world you want. All I want is a chance. I tell you. You just watch me. And I'll make good, too. I've got to make good. You're the finest—"

Well, anyhow, I'm going to make you happy. If it breaks my neck, and maybe after awhile—just try me, that's all. I'll make good, as sure as your name's Sally Morgan.

She turned to him with a faint smile on her lips.
"But my name isn't Sally Morgan," she said.

"Huh? Who's that right. I forgot." His speech became vague again.
"Well that's how I feel, anyway."

She studied him for several seconds, then laid a firm, warm hand over one of his, where it rested on the wheel.

"Old-time," she said gently, "you don't need all those words to say it in."

"But I wanted you to understand—"

"Perhaps I do."

"But you don't. What I wanted you to understand was—"

It's foolish, but— His voice suddenly rose to a shout. "Well, anyhow, I love you!"

Sally's fingers closed around his.
"Now you're talking, Henry Williams," she said, contentedly.

The Wreck swooped on her. It was minutes afterward when Sally freed herself, half laughing, half crying. There was a strange wonderful look in her eyes as she surveyed him—a look of proud, absurdly happy possession. There he was, with his horn-rimmed spectacles, his snout, his old challenging air of defiance. Henry Williams, of Pittsburgh, Pa. Nervous Wreck—but all hers.

"And I do love you," he was saying, belligerently.
"Of course," said Sally. "But it took you so long—"

He swooped again, expertly, for the Wreck was a quick student.
"There," exclaimed Sally. "Now you'd better get out and crank the flivver, or we'll never make the Bar-M tonight."

"But I want you to understand—"

"You dear idiot, I understood long ago."

The Bar-M lay before them, almost at their feet. The ranch buildings huddled close to the ridge on the eastern side of the wide coulee, and the flivver was poised at the top of the ridge. The hills beyond the station were dipping. To the north lay the summit of Black Top. Nearly home.

"I'm afraid we ought to have stuck to the road," said Sally.
The Wreck had insisted on cutting across the range, when they reached a point opposite the Bar-M coulee. "Miles around the other way," he said. "And here we are, almost there."

"But it's pretty steep, Henry."

She looked down the long green slope with a calculating eye.

"It's nothing," said the Wreck. "Just watch."

The flivver dipped into the grade, slowly at first, then with growing speed. It was traveling like a wild thing.

The Wreck had the service brake jammed down as far as it would go. He hauled back on the emergency brake. The flivver plunged onward, her brake bands screaming and smoking.

"We're going to hit something!" cried the Wreck.

Sally opened her eyes.

"Don't hit the kitchen!" she cried. "Ma's in there! Hit the corral!"

He could at least steer, and he did. They hit the corral. A section of fence flew into kindlings and the flivver charged onward. The sorrel horse, directly in its path, lifted his head, snorted, wheeled, lashed out with his heels and missed it by inches. The fence on the farther side loomed. There was a second crash, a lurch, a splintering of various things. The flivver stopped.

Dad Morgan, who was leaning against the fence a few yards distant, removed his pipe from his mouth and examined the situation with interest.

"I see you made good time getting back," he remarked.

"Dad," cried Sally.

"Howdy, Sally! Howdy, Wreck!" He strode toward her for a better look at the flivver. One of the wheels was crumpled, both mudguards were curled up, the wind-shield was gone and there was a rivulet of steaming brown water dripping from the radiator.

"I reckon," said Dad, "that her nervous system is kind of shot up."

"Oh, Dad!"

Sally leaped clear of the wreckage and had her arms around his neck.

"Gis the troussant?" he asked, when she let go of him.

"Trousseau!" cried Sally. "Why, I—I'm married!"

"Well, I'll be darned!"

"Where's Ma? I want to tell her."

"Well, I'll be darned," repeated Dad. "Your Ma's over to the house, I reckon. Where's Bob?"

Sally began to laugh.

"I'm not married to Bob. I'm married to Henry Williams!"

Dad Morgan's glance wandered to the Wreck, who was still sitting in the flivver, gloomily surveying his work.

"Now I will be darned," he said, thoughtfully. "Come to think of it, I reckon I'll be damned."

"You'd better be nice to him," warned Sally, in a whisper. "He's the dearest thing in the world."

She roared away in the direction of the house, where the slight figure of Ma Morgan stood framed in the kitchen doorway.

Dad watched her go. Well, women were queer folks. But if Sally said it was all right, that settled it. Married, eh? The Wreck was his son-in-law! Fair enough, he mused. Sally always insisted the Wreck was game. His own course of conduct was clear. "Well," he said, "providit it ain't necessary for you to sit there watchin' the remains, there's a bottle up at the house."

"Sure," said the Wreck, as he climbed down. "Only don't grin at me. Hear me? Don't grin! It makes me nervous."

THE END.

POULTRY AND STOCK KILLED BY WOLVES
PARIS, Sept. 18.—Reports from Castles, Embois and Chateaux are to the effect that wolves are becoming a real menace to young livestock and poultry.

The animals are very bold and Friday night entered a cow lot on the farm of L. C. Caviness and killed two young calves and several pigs.

A wolf hunt will be staged here the week of Sept. 21, a large pack of hounds to be imported for the purpose. The country around the three mentioned localities is heavily timbered, providing an ideal hiding place for the wolves.

Ostrich Feathers Being Revived For Millinery And Dress Accessories

Ostrich is again coming into its own. Each season sees the use of this lovely feather in some form or other, and all signs this season point to a marked revival of ostrich feathers as millinery and dress accessories, and a probable scarcity of the most desirable feathers.

Not content with using the feathers in the hats for both fall and winter, dealers are making some of the loveliest "rocks" imaginable with the ostrich. A stunning frock seen recently in a downtown shop was of pastel tinted georgette with three rows of ostrich trimming at the skirt and touches of the feathers about the skirt.

Ostrich is being used to such a great extent this year that dealers fear a great scarcity of the feathers soon.

"Perhaps the greatest single factor in the present situation is the reduction of the number of ostriches on the farms in the feather districts of Oodshoorn and the eastern provinces of South Africa," says a local dealer. "Before the war there were approximately 1,500,000 ostriches on the farms in those districts. Today according to reliable information, there are fewer than 200,000."

"Prior to the war, when the ostrich farmer received good prices for his products, he carefully fed and reared the birds. When prices declined, however, it no longer paid him to feed the birds with alfalfa, as the British government paid a much better price for it as fodder for horses. The farmer, therefore, allowed his birds to roam the fields and shift for themselves, with the result that a great many perished and the product of those surviving was a very poor quality feather."

"At present considerable significance attaches to the purchasing of ostrich. Shops are showing ostrich not only for millinery decorations, but great quantities are used for dress trimmings and boas from 24 inches to three yards in length. We look forward to a particularly big season in these accessories."

In dress accessories a large variety of ostrich trimmings is shown. These range from willow edgings in soft pastels to variegated tones in garnitures, rosettes and corsages. Buyers have shown much interest in edgings. Ostrich collarettes for afternoon and evening wear will also be marked features. The ostrich boa has returned, but in the new and attractive form of the willow collarette. For afternoon wear the colors of the collarettes are softer tones and speckled effects, while for evening all of the bright shades prevail.

In millinery the outlook is made suspicious by the change indicated in shapes for the coming season. The advance French model hats have a higher crown, with brims that turn up on one side and down on the other. This type of hat needs trimming, and ostrich is being utilized for this purpose.

LETTER FROM SALLY ATHERTON TO BEATRICE GRIMSHAW SUMMERS, CONTINUED

After Mr. Prescott received that letter, dear Bee, from his mother-in-law, he was grouchy and nervous in the office very little. At last I took matters into my own hands, and one evening before Mrs. Burke, whom you knew as Ruth Ellington, I simply made the assertion that there was nothing that would keep him at home if he really wanted to go and see his wife.

Mr. Prescott could have killed me with great glee, for he knew as I did Mrs. Burke would write that to Lee. As there was no other way out of it, however, he departed with little son and little son's nurse yesterday.

I don't exactly know what is going to happen, Bee dear, for when John Alden Prescott has his pride touched and his ego pricked a little, he is very hard to manage.

I'm alone in our department today, and if I may say so, I'm rather lonely. John Alden Prescott is a very interesting study. He gives the kick to my work which is more or less monotonous.

Dear Bee, you're the very best woman I have ever known, and I suppose it is because you are that kind of a woman, that I have always an uncontrollable inclination to tell you all my most inconspicuous and damnable mischievous thoughts.

I sometimes wonder, dear, if men find us such a bundle of incongruities and foolish little vanities that we find them. I presume they do, for all these little incongruities and vanities are very human.

Of course, I know the only thing that makes us show the least bit of divinity is love—love for our fellow men. I don't believe I've ever loved any one in the world, Bee, except myself and Sam. Sam's love was an ephemeral thing, glorious while it lasted, but very short-lived. There was no friendship, no real liking, no love, provided you can stand my little follies and great foibles.

Mr. and Mrs. Burke seem quite happy. I would think Mrs. Burke could be happy with him. He is a great big magnetic man, who has always had money, and seems always good natured. They tell me he has loved her for years, and wanted to marry her as soon as her husband was away with that other woman. It seems she was afraid, and wouldn't divorce her first husband for quite a while for fear she would be tempted to marry Burke.

Of course you know that Mr. Burke has always had a reputation for being more or less of a rounder, but I think he has reached the time of life when he wants to settle down.

I know you will say that this speech is characteristic of me, and because it is, I'm going to end this letter.

Write me soon, for I miss you, now that you are farther away even than Minnesota.

Lovingly,
SALLY.

TOMORROW: Letter from Annette Anderson to Mrs. John Alden Prescott.

PEOPLE DON'T ADMIRE ROUGH, PIMPLY SKIN

Before you can impress some one of the opposite sex enough to get them to share the happy state of love with you, you certainly must keep your appearance pleasing and attractive. Pimples, blotchy, eczemic skin seems ten times worse to strangers and new acquaintances. And even husbands, wives, parents and kin feel sorry for loved ones who suffer from such skin diseases.

The way to get rid of all these drawbacks to affection and devotion from dear ones is to use Black and White Ointment and Soap, like thousands of people are doing. They are economically priced, in liberal packages. The 50c size Black and White Ointment contains three times as much as the 25c size. All dealers have both the Ointment and the Soap.—Adv.

MAY USE METAL POLES FOR CITY

Traffic Lights Examined By Police Chief

Port Arthur's electric traffic lights, positively the latest thing and "big town stuff," probably will be ordered this week.

A representative of the Crouse-Hinds company of Chicago, pioneers in the manufacture of traffic lights, was here from Houston yesterday afternoon and conferred with Mayor Logan and Chiefs Covington and LaRose. The visitor told the officials that the swinging traffic lights, suspended in the middle of intersections, would receive hard wear here because of high winds, and advised traffic lights fastened to metal poles. Chief Covington had already received prices on the swinging lights, but a telegram was rushed to Chicago for prices on lights fastened to posts.

System Explained

The proposed traffic regulation would consist of metal posts in the center of the intersection of Procter and Waco, Procter and Austin and Austin and Fifth. Three lights, each visible from four sides, would be fastened vertically at the top of the posts. One-way traffic will be insured by red and green lights, halting traffic in one direction and allowing it to continue in the other direction. An orange light, between the red and green lights, will flash between the red and green as a signal to drivers of the change in direction of traffic. At the same time a bell will ring.

A metal post system of traffic lights is not used in Texas, Dallas suspending its single lights on cables in the center of the intersection. In San Antonio and Houston the colored lights are fastened to posts on the curb directly in front of the foremost driver in the line of traffic. Each intersection has two sets of lights.

The system here will be operated with a switch at the police station, where the desk sergeant will switch on and off the red and green at regular intervals. In this way, instead of automatic control, bells can be started ringing and all lights cut off when the fire department answers a call, all traffic being brought to a standstill.

SCHOLASTIC

intendent G. M. Sims expects from 25 to 75 additional pupils each week for several weeks.

Enrollment in the parochial schools is up to expectations, the two Lutheran schools having a total enrollment of 130, according to W. H. Smith, head of the board of trustees. Full enrollment is also reported from the Catholic school.

Figures given out this morning by Superintendent Sims show Port Arthur's school enrollment has more than doubled in the last four years, in 1920, at the close of the third year of school, the enrollment in all schools was 2,727.

In 1921 the enrollment was up to 4,418 and in 1922 Port Arthur's pupils totaled 4,987. Last year the enrollment made a leap to 5,943 for the same opening date, while the corresponding figures for this year are 6,130.

MANCHESTER, Sept. 18.—After confessing to the theft of more than 1000 purses, in a period of three months, Peggy Weaver, 19, was given an indeterminate sentence, in prison by the Manchester stipendiary. The girl told police that she "worked" only the exclusive shops, where the most expensive purses were to be found.

OCTOBER 5 TO 11 IS FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Fire prevention week in Port Arthur will be observed October 5 to 11, in line with the national movement, Mayor J. P. Logan said this morning. Efforts will be made to have special programs arranged in the schools, the mayor said, with talks to be made by fire officials. Stickers may be distributed to be placed on all letters.

DAVIS, WHELESS TO SYNOD MEET

Will Represent Presbytery at Mexia Conference

Rev. T. Alvis Davis, pastor of the Presbyterian church, and I. H. Wheless were elected delegates to the Synod at Mexia at the closing session of the Houston Presbytery of the Presbyterian church, U. S. A., last night. Rev. David H. Templeton, pastor of Houston Heights church of Houston, was elected moderator.

The Houston Presbytery of the Presbyterian church, U. S. A., has been convening at the local Presbyterian church on Tuesday and Wednesday, the sessions being the most successful in its history. More than 50 delegates and visitors were in attendance.

Stirring Address

H. C. Glenn, a layman, president of the Temple Trust company, delivered a stirring address on stewardship Tuesday night at the opening session of the Presbytery. Mr. Glenn told of the immensity of the financial task involved in the prosecution of the work of the Presbyterian church at large; of the chaotic condition of society as represented in our American democracy; of our departure from God's conception of the ownership and use of property and the remedy which must be applied individually and by the church, that God is the owner of all and man is the steward.

Wednesday was given over to reports and a review of the work in the various fields. The Woman's Presbyterian Missionary Society had a splendid meeting during Wednesday and several inspirational addresses were given. The closing service last night was under the direction of the Woman's Presbyterian Society.

The women of the local Presbyterian church served luncheon and dinner to the visitors at the Annex yesterday.

The Presbytery will convene next April at Central Presbyterian church in Houston.

7 GALLONS OF RUM, 8 NEGROES SEIZED

Seven gallons of liquor, nearly a gallon apiece for the six negro men and two negro women comprising a darktown joy riding party, were seized and the eight negroes arrested about 1 a. m. today by Officers O. E. Rose and C. M. Beckham when they raided an automobile at Houston avenue and Tenth street.

All of the negro men and negro women were docketed on the police blotter "hold for federal," and the added count of vagrancy was lodged against one of the negro men arrested in the automobile, police said today. In corporation court today, a fine of $10 and costs was assessed by Judge A. W. Dyeus against the negro on the complaint of vagrancy.

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 18.—A klan "war" between Grand Dragon Jewett of the Oklahoma regime and Wash Hudson, Tulsa klansman and democratic leader, who was ousted by Jewett, was in full swing today.

WOULD SPEED UP U. S. MAIL

Congressional Action Sought For State Centers

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 17.—Measures for congressional action to speed up the mails by relieving congestion at terminal postoffices was to be discussed by members of the National Association of Postmasters here today in the 24th annual convention.

The session is to continue three days.

Among the principal speakers today were: Postmaster General Harry S. New, and Frank J. Beck, postmaster at Newark, N. J., and president of the association.

At tomorrow's session proposed salary increases for postmasters will be one of the principal topics under discussion. John H. Bartlett, first assistant postmaster general, will be the principal speaker.

Thursday's session will be given over to discussion of service problems.

It was the belief of some of the postmasters here today that the best way to relieve congestion at the terminal postoffice would be the establishment of a terminal in each state and have the mail distributed from there.

The present bill now before congress to increase salaries of postal employees does not provide for increase to postmasters and it was believed that it should be amended to include such a provision.

A bill providing for increased charges on c. o. d. parcel post was also to be discussed for presentation to congress.

"THE FOOL'S AWAKENING"

"The Fool's Awakening" is showing at the Cameo theater today with Harrison Ford playing the leading role as John Briggs, supported by Enid Bennett, Mary Alden and a host of other big players.

The story tells of John Briggs, a poor young Englishman, who builds up for himself a fictitious past which brings him fame when he publishes a book under another's name. When Olivia Gale, an heiress, marries him, she is in ignorance of his true story, and the shock of discovering his deceit results in her leaving him. The series of thrilling incidents which lead up to his imposture, and his attempt at suicide when he believes that his wife cannot forgive his deception, make every reel of his photoplay of particular appeal to every type of movie-goer. Sentiment and thrills, real people in real situations are enough to hold the interest of any audience, as the enthusiastic reception at the Cameo theater proved.

"LAST OF THE DUANEES"

Tom Mix will appear here in "The Last of the Duanees," at the Peace Theatre for 4 days, starting tomorrow. The story is a typical, thrilling, two-fisted sort of yarn.

"The Last of the Duanees" deals with one Buck Duane, last of a long line of Duanees who have been known for their daring and defiance with the use of a sixgun. John Duane, father of Buck, was said to be the fastest man on the draw in the southwest and Mrs. Duane holds grave fears that her son will follow the footsteps of his father.

Riding over the ranch, Buck meets Jenny, a sweet lass of eighteen. Her father is ill and Buck earns the girl's gratitude by helping her mend a broken wagon. That evening he visits a dance hall where he dances with a pretty Mexican girl, Cal Bain, the town bully, who claims the girl as his sweetheart, threatens him. The next day Buck is told that Bain, still drunk, is looking for him to kill him. The men meet and Bain reaches for his gun; but he is too slow. This is Buck Duane's first gun play. Fearing arrest, Buck mounts his horse and leaves for the foothills.

Sheriff Poggin is a rough individual. Secretly he is the chief of a band of outlaws and cattle rustlers. In his flight Buck comes in contact with these outlaws and becomes entangled with the leader, being accused of trying to steal his wife. After a series of exciting episodes during which Buck's life is endangered several times, he rescues Jenny, who has been kidnapped by the bandits.

MAN ENSLAVED BY PLANT LIFE

Nurserymen Hold 7th Annual Meet at Dallas

DALLAS, Sept. 18.—"Mankind has been enslaved by plant life, all of which display a high grade of intelligence," W. J. Canaday, Sedalia, Mo., declared here today in an address opening the seventh annual convention of Southwestern Nurserymen's association.

"Plants give man life; they keep him alive and finally end his life. Man is enslaved by plants upon which he is dependent. He may finally die of disease given off by plants," Canaday said.

The convention was called to order by J. A. Maher, of Warshbach, president of the association. The convention closes tomorrow.

AMERICANS ROBBED BY MEXICAN BANDITS

AMERICANS ROBBED—3 ...
EL PASO, Sept. 18.—A party of seven American tourists camping overnight near Guadalupe, thirty miles southwest of Juarez, was held up and robbed by five Mexican bandits, according to word to police here today.

The bandits took guns, jewelry and money, but did not molest three women in the party.

MERIDIAN HIGHWAY WILL BE IMPROVED

MARLIN, Sept. 18.—Completion of the concrete road crossing the corner of Falls County near Eddy on the Waco-Temple highway, is promised within the next sixty days.

This has been one of the worst pieces of road on the Meridian highway between these points and while the strip is only 2.2 miles, it has been a great hindrance to travel. With the completion, a permanent first class highway will be accessible to tourists from Waco towards the cities of Temple, Austin and San Antonio.

INDIAN TRIBES STAGE 'COUNCIL'

13 States Are Represented When Meeting Held

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17.—Gathered around the big open "camp fire" in the forest lobby of the main gateway mammoth log hotel of Glacier national park, Indian tribes from 13 states recently held a two-day "civilizing council," which the Indian department says ought to put the warring nations of the world to shame.

This pow wow emphasized historically the wonderful peace progress that has been made by the American Indian, for the red men present declared the old War Council to be a thing of the past forever so far as they were concerned.

Tribes Are Happy
The council of civilization has taken its place in their lives on the various reservations, and they are happy in their industrial and agricultural pursuits.

The advancement made in agriculture by the Blackfoot Indians of the Glacier national park reservation under the supervision of Superintendent F. C. Campbell furnished one of the important topics for the convention.

The representatives of the tribes made a tour of inspection among a number of the nearby Blackfoot Indians farms which have been cultivated so successfully that the United States government built a flour mill to take care of the grain.

WAREHOUSE IS FORMER PLAN

Aid for Distributors Sought Through Method

Banking organizations, trade associations, manufacturing and distributing groups as well as railroad and transportation bodies are being invited by the division of simplified practice, department of commerce, to a conference on September 24, in the department of commerce, with the public warehouse industry to consider the simplification of the present endless variety of forms used in warehousing and to act on uniform documents for the warehouse industry which have been prepared after nearly two years study by a special committee of the American Warehousemen's association headed by A. H. Greeley of Cleveland, Ohio.

Invitations sent out by Ray M. Hudson, chief of the division of simplified practice, include trade associations and other groups in more than 100 cities in 36 states, as well as Canadian organizations which are affected by any action taken by United States warehousing industries.

Present diversity in such forms is a direct cause of confusion, lost time and errors, it is claimed, and the conference will be the culmination of a movement to obviate these losses. The conference has the backing of the department of commerce, members of the American Bankers association, the chamber of commerce of the United States, the national distributors' association, National Furniture Warehousemen's association, freight claim organizations of transportation interests and business groups generally. The meeting will seek to have made uniform certain documents, notably negotiable and non-negotiable warehouse receipts generally used in business dealings between warehousemen and distributors who use public merchandise warehouses.

It is pointed out that warehousing is rapidly being recognized as an important link in the chain of distribution and that a considerable improvement can be made in the service rendered by this industry by greater uniformity.

Electric Welding Saves Bridge

In the course of repairing a bridge over the Allegheny River at Pittsburgh connecting Herrs Island with the north shore it was found that certain main members of the 31-year-old steel bridge had become so rusted due to neglect that they would have to be replaced. To replace these parts would, however, necessitate tearing down and rebuilding. So, specialists in electrical welding were called in and additional steel welded on to replace that which had rusted away. This work was done under the supervision of the engineering department of the city of Pittsburgh and when completed tests showed the repaired parts were as good as new.

NO. 13—NEW SHOES—WHAT HAPPENED TO THEM

"Nice shoes you sell, Mister Snip Snap!" she said finally.

"Say, Mister Snip Snap," said Nancy one morning, "school opened today, so I don't suppose we need to keep our store open any more, do we?"

"Her! What's that, what's that!" cried the little fairyman in surprise. "What did you say about not keeping the store open any more?"

"I just said," repeated Nancy, "that the Meadow Grove school opened today, because Nick and I saw Mister Scribble Scratch, the schoolmaster, dusting off the seats as we passed. He said he was going to ring the first bell at half past eight because it always took Moses Mud Turtle a whole half hour to get there, and as it was he supposed he'd be late."

"Just so," nodded Mister Snip Snap, "but what has that got to do with closing our store, I'd like to know!"

"Everybody is all fixed for school clothes," said Nick. "There isn't anybody left to sell things to."

"Well, I declare!" cried Mister Snip Snap. "I declare to goodness! Is that all you know about school clothes! I suppose you think those things we sold to the squirrel boys and the Bunny children and all the rest are just not rally going to last them the rest of their lives. Well, we'll keep the store open for a few days and see what happens. Why, my goodness, school shoes wear out quicker than ice on a hot pavement. Just you wait, my dear! Just you wait!"

Sure enough!

About three days later who should come into the store of Nancy, Nick & Company but Mrs. Cottontail. She was so cross about something that her nose wriggled and wriggled and her ears kept going up and down and she just looked as though somebody had tsoled the ice cream freezer off the back porch.

"Nice shoes you sell, Mister Snip Snap!" she said finally when her nose stopped wriggling long enough for her to talk.

"That's nice, Mrs. Cottontail," said Mister Snip Snap, pretending not to understand what she meant. "We always try to please everybody. I'm glad that you think that our shoes are nice."

"You know very well what I mean," she said sharply. "When I say you sell nice shoes I mean that they aren't nice at all."

"Do you mean that you got some bad shoes here, Mrs. Cottontail?" asked Nick in surprise. Do you mean the shoes I sold you for Cutie last Saturday?"

"Yes, sir, I certainly do," said Mrs. Cottontail. "They must have been made out of tissue paper or something. Why, the soles have holes in them as big as doughnuts and he's only worn them three days."

"Do you mean as big as the outside of a doughnut or the inside?" asked Nancy, who wanted to be sure just what the rabbit lady meant.

"Why, I mean the— Say, look here," said Mrs. Cottontail. "Do I have to go and measure those holes and tell you just how big they are before you'll believe that those shoes are worn out? I'll just send Cutie in after school and you can see for yourselves."

With that the rabbit lady walked out before anybody could say another word. And this time she looked as cross as though she'd lost two freezers of ice cream.

CHILD'S STORY OF THE HUMAN RACE

FIRST TRIP "ROUND THE WORLD."

Part II—Land of Friendly Indians

The fleet of Magellan was stocked for a long voyage. Among the items of food were pork, peas, beans, flour, cheese, prunes and rice. Some casks of wine were also carried, not to speak of honey, garlic, vinegar and mustard.

Yes, there was a big supply of provisions; but the day was to come when food would be so scarce that rat-meat would be welcome.

The first stop was at one of the Canary Islands. The little fleet stopped for five days, took on a new swim close to the vessels. These were chiefly sharks. Some of them were caught with iron hooks and eaten.

At last good winds came once more. The coast of Brazil was reached. On shore were a great many Indians who wore little or no clothing. They received the white men kindly and gave them all sorts of food to eat. In return, the sailors gave knives and trinkets.

The Indians were still living in the Stone Age. You can imagine how happy they were to get knives made of steel instead of stone! In exchange for a steel knife they were willing to give a pair of geese, and for a bell a basket of turnips. One sailor gave an Indian a playing card (the king of diamonds) and received as payment six chickens!

The Indians had many tame parrots, and would trade eight or ten for a single mirror.

OLD VESSELS FIRE HAZARDS

Orange C. of C. Requests Protection From U. S.

Shipping board vessels being sold to wrecking and salvage concerns from the Orange boneyard are posing an ultimate fire hazard to shipping, according to the Orange Chamber of Commerce.

Recommendation that a different course of procedure be calculated to protect Orange and other ports from fire hazard has been dispatched to the chairman of the shipping board by Secretary Sheppardson.

Heretofore there has been nothing to prevent destruction of the shell by fire of vessels salvaged, after they had passed through the hands of several buyers.

The Orange Chamber of Commerce recommendation is that the first purchaser be made liable for subsequent disposition of the bulk, since the first purchaser and those succeeding him in turn could protect their interests by requiring similar bond.

VERDICT GIVEN

Norris testified that Theriot made a move as if to draw a pistol and both stepped out of the car.

Norris declared that he knew that Theriot had an indictment against him for assault to murder and that he was afraid of him. The shooting followed and Norris went to Port Arthur, where he gave himself up, he testified.

Relatives and friends of both Theriot and Norris were in the court room when the verdict was returned. They left in groups of twos and threes until the court room was deserted.

Mrs. Whitney Norris, who took the stand in her husband's behalf, stood apart from the others. She stood quiet and still and watched members of her family leave without her. Within a short time the court room was deserted; then Mrs. Norris slowly turned and walked away alone.

Relatives and friends of both Theriot and Norris were in the court room when the verdict was returned. They left in groups of twos and threes until the court room was deserted.

SONFIELD TALKS BY LITIGATION

Rotary Club Celebrates Signing of Constitution

The anniversary of the signing of the constitution of the United States was observed by the Port Arthur Rotary club Thursday noon at the Plaza hotel. Judge Leon Sonfield of Beaumont delivered the address of the day in which he criticized present day tendencies to revert from the customs of those who signed the constitution in 1787.

"We are losing our individuality through a machine made government," said Sonfield. "Instead of being governed by our senators and representatives we are in reality governed by some $2500 bureau clerk. They even tell us the size of bedsheets for hotel beds," he said.

Judge Sonfield's address was enthusiastically received by Rotarians and a large number of guests who were present.

HELD WITHOUT BAIL ON STATUTORY CHARGE

After a preliminary hearing on complaints of a statutory charge before Judge R. G. Robertson, justice of the peace, Wednesday morning, two men arrested upon the complaint of a 16-year-old girl were ordered held without bond, and were turned over to county officials. The girl testified that the men asked her to go riding in a car with them, and that they took her out to a house at El Vista. The next day, she said, the men brought her back to Port Arthur and kept her locked in a room on Houston avenue until she escaped during the afternoon.

POLL TAX LEAGUE ORGANIZATION OCTOBER

Permanent organization of the Port Arthur poll tax league is now scheduled for the next meeting on the first Wednesday night in October, in Waco park, Waco avenue and Sixteenth street, officials said today.

At the meeting held in the park last night, a large crowd was present to hear the speakers, many women being among the throngs attending the gathering, according to officials. The object of the league is to increase the number of poll tax payments in Port Arthur and urge upon qualified voters their duty to vote, officials said.

NAVY BOOMED

ST. PAUL, Sept. 18.—The American Legion convention today urged congress and the navy department to bring the United States navy seapower up to the terms of the 5-5-3 ratio of the naval armament agreement.

"It is a well known fact," said the naval affairs committee report, "that the ratio is now 3-4-3, with the United States occupying the position of four."

COPS CALLED TO QUELL VOTE ROW

HOUSTON, Sept. 18.—Police and deputy sheriffs were called out here early this morning to settle a row which threatens to split national headquarters of the "League of Protestant Women."

Attempts on the part of one faction to oust two national officers are believed to have been the cause for the row which continued from midnight until nearly dawn. Mrs. J. E. Armstrong, Galveston, national president, arrived here today. She is said to be supporting the faction which seeks to oust the two officers.

BODY OF MRS. LEE ALLEN SHIPPED AWAY

The body of Mrs. Lee Allen, 48, who died at the home of her son-in-law, F. N. Horn, 948 Procter street, was shipped out of Beaumont for St. Augustine, Texas, early today under the direction of J. E. Grammer, undertaker, and burial will be made there. Mrs. Allen was sick for several months.

SPLAWN PLANS SALARY BOOST

Requests Board of Control For $74,030

AUSTIN, Sept. 18.—For the purpose of bringing up all salaries of faculty members to a new level, President William M. Splawn of the University of Texas, today requested the state board of control to recommend to the legislature an appropriation of $74,030 to be used as a salary adjustment fund. Full professors of the University are to receive a maximum of $5,000 instead of $4,500, the minimum to remain at $3,750. The proposed fund would allow increases in all salaries above $2,000, the increase to be 25 per cent of the excess above $2,000. All increases would apply to the main university and all of its branches.

The dean of the law department is to receive $6,000. Judge Ira E. Ellstrand is the new dean, having been appointed by the regents yesterday to succeed Dr. George C. Butte, resigned to accept the republican nomination for governor.

Logan Withholds Comment On Car Franchise

Mayor J. P. Logan this morning declined to say whether or not the city commission would exercise its "veto" on the Chamber of Commerce's traction committee Monday when the 10-day period granted to reach a new traction agreement expires.

Word was received last week from President C. H. Bessler of Dayton, Ohio, president of the Port Arthur Traction company, that he would be in Port Arthur during the week of September 23 to reach a full agreement with the city.

Committee members say further efforts have been made to have Bessler reach here earlier or submit some proposition before Monday, but nothing further has been heard, the committee says.

MANY NEGRO PICKERS MIGRATE INTO WEST

TILLER, Sept. 18.—Heavy movements of negro cotton pickers westward both by rail and overland is now under way, many negro croppers here having finished picking their crop and started west to follow the opening of the cotton. Because nearly all farms here are small in acreage, no demand locally is found for much help and consequently the exodus of negroes to cotton fields in central and west Texas is heavy. Employment agents coming into this city offer pickers around $2 a hundred.

TEXAS GIRL NABBED FOR DANCE ON BEACH

MINNOLA, L. I., Sept. 18.—Police raided a home at Great Neck after complaints had been made that women were seen dancing in bathing suits in front of the house. Two women and six men were arrested, including the justice of the peace of Great Neck. The two women arrested were Miss Vera Latimer of Great Neck and a girl who said she was from Dallas, Texas.

M'ADOO WILL SAIL FOR HOME TODAY

PARIS, Sept. 18.—William G. McAdoo, who has been resting in Paris since his failure to obtain the democratic presidential nomination, will sail for the United States tomorrow. He will make several speeches in behalf of the candidacy of John W. Davis, after he arrives in the United States.
